TALK TO UNEMPLOYED BY ONE IN SYMPATHY WITH THEM

Those Out of Work Urged to Retain Their Self-Respect Because They Are But Victims of a System Which Makes Unemployment a Certainty—A Lesson From the Sinking of the Titanic.

Editor Standard—From time to time your paper has made detailed reports on the so-called "Botherhood Welfare Association," which has its headquarters at 255 Twenty-fifth street, in a store room, the use of which has been generously donated by Mrs. George Maule.

Mention has been made of the efficient work of Mrs. Montgomery, representing the W. C. T. U., in aiding the hundreds of unemployed men who have sought a refuge in our city, to organize and to furnish and equip this storeroom as a headquarters.

Chief of Police Norton, Judge Reeder and other city and county officials and a few citizens have also aided and encouraged this movement which has done much to alleviate the suffering and distress occasioned by unemployment.

It is well enough Ogden has a peculiar duty in this respect. This is essentially a city of strangers. It has a population of 30,000 because of the fact of location. It is built at the cross roads. If the Oregon Short Line did not at this point cross and connect with the Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and the Denver & Rio Grande railroads, Ogden would be a strictly agricultural town a little bit larger perhaps than Farmington or Brigham City.

Because of the accident of good location, Ogden has grown and largely on the patronage of strangers. To the stranger within our gates, we therefore owe a certain obligation. We must not expect to reap all the advantages of our location and dodge the disadvantages. One of the disadvantages is this influx of homeless men, out of employment, who seek this city because it is centrally located and because it is known as a labor market.

It is an awful thing to be down and out. Membership in the down-and-out club carries with it many annoyances. One of these is the absence of the usual three square meals per diem, which is the birthright of each American citizen.

Another is the absence of small silver and other subsidiary coins in the pocket. Every man knows how bracing is the effect of a heavy iron dollar in his pocket. There is something soothing and sustaining in the knowledge that it is there. One may get along without the "three squares" and suffer no undue anxiety, if he knows he has the price still in his pocket. But to be homeless, friendless and jobless in a strange city and with stomach and pockets empty—that is pretty tough.

They say that there are six million men in the United States out of employment this winter. Not all of these are out of money and most of them manage somehow to surround the "three squares" daily. Added to this number, there are, without doubt, many more who are unemployed part of the time or who would like to be busier than they are.

Not the least of the disadvantages of being broke and out of a job is the advice to which you have to listen. Everybody feels privileged to ladle out advice to you and you have to stand and take it. Under the capitalistic or dog-eat-dog system of society which we do not now enjoy as much as we might, we measure each man's success by the amount of money he has grabbed off, and if a man has no money at all and no means of making any, we set him down as an awful failure and give him advice.

We are all like so many race track touts—we all think we know a good way to beat the game.

The unemployed men of the Botherhood down on Twenty-fifth street have been getting lots of advice lately. The gentlemen of republican affiliations take advantage of the opportunity to urge them to vote for the grand old white elephant and the progressives come around and tell you that you should get ready to vote for a continuation of the present administration because the so-called "hard times" are more psychological than real and are something that the big interests, which are mostly republican, cooked up for meanness and bring on Dr. Wilson's administration just for spite.

The socialists also come around and offer you advice. They call you comrades and really feel that way because most of them know what it is to be broke. Nevertheless they pass the hat and take up a collection for present emergencies and then hand you some booklets and leaflets to read which they say will be good for what ails you.

The W. C. T. U. also come around with advice to keep out of saloons as bad places for a man with or without money, and you, comrades, are as good judges of the quality of that advice as any one. They also serve good hot meals with the advice and you perhaps do well to take both liberally.

Then some of the churches also serve meals and with it good advice and a lone man a long way from home and out of a job might do worse than to eat one and listen to the other. You are advised that there is another world coming and that the inequalities of this life, if you are good, will all be evened up in the next, and that, perhaps, the poor man of today will have a reserved seat in heaven, while the millionaires have to stand up in the aisles, perhaps.

The chief of police also has advice to offer about not violating any city or state laws while you are in his town and you will do well to listen closely for the chief always has the last guess in case anything happens. Besides, a guest of the city should not forget his manners and the Bible says that "the meek shall inherit the earth."

Also, Judge Reeder is a good adviser. He always gives it out freely with a ten-day sentence, and it is really better to take it before than after.

And, inasmuch as I was present when a collection was taken to help furnish your headquarters, and put in two bits, I am entitled to add some advice, too.

It is best to listen carefully to all the advice and hold fast to that which is good but, above all, keep your self-respect.

Self-respect is the word. It may be hard to retain self-respect when clad in insufficient clothing and with no money for food, lodging, baths, shaves or haircuts. But don't let any man convince you that it must be your fault that you are broke for there are 5,999,999 other men in the United States just as much out of a job as you are, and it may be, just as worthy.

There was once a great steamship called the "Titanic" that sailed from Liverpool, bound for New York, with more than 2000 people on board, but only enough life boats and life rafts to carry about 800 people. The owners of that magnificent liner used so much space for baths, plunge pools, billiard parlors and music and game rooms that they could spare little room for life boats and rafts. They deliberately took chances. They gambled with the lives of the crew and passengers. It was definitely settled and known the day she sailed that, in case of disaster, only two-fifths of the people aboard could be saved.

Well, she did meet with disaster and about 1200 people were drowned because there was absolutely no means at hand to save them. About 20 people, worthy women and children, did get away in the life boats, but about 1200 people, mostly men, stood on the decks as the ship sank and listened to the band play, "Nearer, My God, to Thee." And the world called them heroes.

Only 800 people were saved because it was not planned to save any more. Oh, yes, I forgot the poodle dogs. There were 18 poodle dogs aboard and all were saved. A great many people who travel first class cabin in this life do not have children but keep poodle dogs, instead. And all were saved.

But to offset the poodle dogs, there were 54 bellhops, or elevator boys, on the Titanic who went down with the ship. They stayed with the men and drowned and let women and children be saved "for that is the law of the sea." They were heroes, too.

Some of the men and boys who sank with the ship could have forced their way into the boats, but, if they had, other people would have been forced to stay and drown. The ship was planned that way.

We can imagine some of the stronger hearts encouraging their fellows as they struggled in the ice-cold water during that awful half hour that followed the sinking of the Titanic. They may have said, "Don't give up. Keep afloat. Hang on. The Carpathia is coming. She caught our signal. It will soon be daylight. Hang on. Don't give up. They will surely see us."

Well, there is another ship that sails out hopefully every spring and regularly at the approach of winter runs around on the bar just outside the harbor. Her name is "Capitalism" and the people who own and operate the ship deliberately plan that there shall not be enough room in the life boats for all the passengers and crew in case of disaster.

This winter there are 6,000,000 heroes or victims of capitalism. There were only 1200 Titanic heroes. Yet we lecture and advise and patronize these men who are out of employment, who can find no jobs, no room in the life boats, as if it was somehow their fault. We ignore the fact that the rotten old craft is built and equipped that way.

It is not intended, and never was, that there should be jobs for everybody in this country during the winter time. And anybody who plans for such a condition must be a dreamer and a Socialist at heart.

The men who went down on the Titanic kept their self-respect. The men who walk our streets looking for work should hold their heads erect and look the world in the face and cultivate self-respect in their hearts, for they are the heroes of our capitalistic system.

They may resolve in their hearts that next winter they will have a good job nailed down to last clear through with steam heat and short hours, but they may be reasonably sure that if they do secure such a job next winter then 6,000,000 other men, just as good as they, must walk the streets. For that is the way capitalism is built. There is only room for a limited number in the life boats.

Anybody who proposes to have life boats for everybody the same is a socialist and a crank and a menace to the community. (Signed) O. A. Kennedy.

The DOCTOR'S ADVICE

by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply in any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Elliwood Sts., Dayton, O., enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order a wholesale.

according to directions you will soon be out again and be strong and well. Get 2 drams of iodine of potassium; 4 drams sodium salicylate; 1/2 oz. wine of colchicum; 1 oz. comp. essence cardiol; 1 oz. comp. fluid balmwort and 5 oz. of syrup sarsaparilla comp. Mix and take a teaspoonful at meal time and again before going to bed.

C. O. C. asks: "I am constipated, tongue coated, have headache, dizzy spells and indigestion sometimes. Please advise."

Answer: I advise that you begin using three grain sulphur tablets (not sulphur). These tablets are laxative, act on the liver, kidneys and bowels and tend to eliminate functions. Relief should follow quickly.

"Secretary" writes: "I have pains in my spine and frightful headache in back of head, fainting spells, twitching, trembling, nervousness, sleeplessness, loss of appetite and strength, and in fact a 'bad case,' when it comes to performing accurate work and duties. Please advise."

Answer: In all such cases the assimilative functions have not kept place with waste functions and a powerful harmless tonic treatment is needed. I find three grain cadomene tablets unexcelled and astonishingly beneficial in such cases and advise them for you.

Mrs. C. W. B. asks: "I suffer greatly owing to too much fat. Can you advise me of a good reduction remedy?"

Answer: Any well stocked pharmacy can supply you with 5 grain arbolone tablets, packed in sealed tubes with full directions for use. These tablets have proven wonderfully effective in reducing abnormal fat.

"Fern" writes: "I have suffered with a bad cough for some time and I am also weak and tired most of the time, which I think is due to the severe coughing. Can you give me a remedy?"

Answer: Yes, your weakness is due to the coughing, but you should be well relieved by using the following: Get a 2 1/2 oz. package of essence mentho-laxene and make according to directions on the bottle, then take a teaspoonful every hour or two until the cough is cured. This makes a full pint of the very best and safest cough syrup. If your druggist does not have mentho-laxene, have him order it for you of the wholesale firm.

Mrs. D. E. B. asks: "Will you please give me a prescription for Pelvic catarrh and cure of the head?"

Answer: The very best local treatment for the relief and correction of catarrh is antiseptic Viline Powder. Obtain either a two or eight ounce package and with it you will find complete directions for treating catarrh of the head and pelvic catarrh (leucorrhea). It is an antiseptic of the very highest quality.—Advertisement.

A Piece of Cranberry Pie With Every $50.00 Purchase

Sounds ridiculous, eh? Well we want it to sound ridiculous—the more ridiculous, the better. There is so much sham, pretense and down-right tom-foolery in these so-called FREE offers that some of our beloved merchants are so frantically advertising these days, that it is time for somebody to show them up in their true ludicrous light. Anybody with common sense will know that no business man is giving anything away for any conceivable purpose whatsoever. When a merchant tells you that he is giving you something for nothing, he is either honeyfugling you or talking out of his Ananias Dictionary. The worst of it isn't that you pay for what he claims to give you free, that part is alright, you ought to pay for it, all of us, every one of us, Republican, Democrat or Progressive ought to pay for everything worth while we get in this world and do it gladly, but what we object to is, that in these hot-air free offers you pay for it without knowing it and pay a GOOD FAT PROFIT on the so-called present besides. It's like a friend inviting you out to dinner and then leaving you to pay the check. The thing that gets our Angora is the picture of these self-styled philanthropists rubbing their hands in the holy sanctimony, pretending to donate to you a bona fide present, when in reality they are performing a painless operation on your pocket book, while they have your good judgment under the ether of their Free Present bunk.

High grade merchandise at less than actual wholesale cost—that's the only claim we make. We don't pretend to give anything away. But during the few remaining days of our CLOSING OUT SALE we'll guarantee to sell you Dress Goods, Silks, Domestics, Furnishings, Shoes, Chinaware, Glassware and House Furnishings of every description at less than the FREE ARTISTS pay for the same goods at wholesale. If you really want to save money, if you really want to buy good dependable merchandise at less than actual factory cost, just put on your Missouri shoes and come over to the RASMUSSEN Closing Out Sale, we'll let you be the judge.
